Our Story

Batchelor Institute is Australia's oldest and only First Nations dual-sector tertiary education provider.

Batchelor Institute's philosophy is one of 'Both Ways Learning'. The philosophy celebrates First Nations peoples' traditional skills, knowledge and concepts. Our students layer Western education concepts over this foundation of traditional knowledge, and it is this philosophy that dictates Batchelor Institute's teaching pedagogy.

From preparatory courses, VET certificates, diploma level courses, postgraduate course work, and research programs, across several academic faculties and divisions, Batchelor Institute deliver courses in what First Nations Communities want and need, what will empower our communities and support the creation of a cohort of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who can answer the questions that are important to us. We also align our courses to employment opportunities in remote communities.

Batchelor Institute of First Nations Tertiary Education

Batchelor Institute began in the late 1960s as a small annexe of Kormilda College, providing programs for Aboriginal teacher aides and assistants in community schools.

1974 ● Relocation of Aboriginal teacher education to Batchelor township, titled Aboriginal Teacher Education Centre (ATEC).

1979 ● ATEC becomes a college of technical and further education and renamed Batchelor College.

1982 ● The Institute commenced as a dual sector tertiary provider.

1983 ● Inaugural meeting of the College Council 12 Aug.

1990 ● A second campus was established in 1990 in Alice Springs.

1999 ● Batchelor College is renamed Batchelor Institute of Indigenous Tertiary Education, with an emphasis on Australian Indigenous ownership and governance of the Batchelor Institute Council.

2011 ● Batchelor Institute entered a collaborative partnership with Charles Darwin University for the shared delivery of a specific range of Higher Education and Postgraduate study options which address the needs of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students.

2014 ● Batchelor Institute's first PhD graduates. Thesis was examined by two international scholars and a well-respected local First Nations expert. The award was given with distinction and the Institute began its journey in the postgraduate space with excellence.

2017 ● Batchelor becomes a fully accredited World Indigenous Nations Higher Education Consortium. Batchelor Institute is also the only organisation that is wholly recognised as a First Nations run and led organisation in Australia.

2020 ● First 10 Higher Degree by Research (PhDs and Masters) students graduate.

2023 ● Batchelor Institute wins NT VET Large provider of the year for the third time.
